FOR PRESIDENT, GENERAL WINFIELD SCOTT

OF NEW JERSEY. FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

WILLIAM A. GRAHAM,

Reserved. That the Whir people of Washington, consciou that the ground they trend is worthy of the consecrated name it bears only so long as it is peopled by men who hold to the Union of the States as the source and fountain of the blessing of public order and private right—of liberty and blessings of public order and private right—of liberty and law—of happiness at home, and honor throughout the world; and believing that in the principles and policy of the Whig party, and in the tried patriotism of its glorious leaders, is the best safeguard of the Union from domestic discord or foreign quarrel, be HOLD FIRELY to those principles, and will raily with ardent and united hearts around the flag of the Union, to whomsoever of these leaders it may be confided in the approaching contest.—Proceedings of a Whig meeting prior to the nomination.

Our subscribers on the Capitol Hill and Navy Yard route are earnestly requested to square ful, but probably Democratic. The Democratic their accounts with the carrier who serves them.

Gamblingt

The latest charge against Gen. Scott is contained in Loco papers just come to hand, and its import is that instead of preventing gambling in the city of Mexico he merely made the keeper of each gaming house pay heavily for his license. As this charge will not be fussed over by any who practice, or did then practice, gambling, licensed or unlicensed, we take it for granted that the Locos, of good and pure morals, may henceforth be easily known.

On a recent occasion the Washington Union complained grievously of what it regarded as certain "low charges" made against General Pierce, and threatened to "carry the war into Africa!" We have no notion of crossing the Rubicon. We will stand on our own side of the stream when a war of defamation is to be waged beyond it. It may be to the tastes of the Union and its associates to carry such a war into Africa. Indeed, it may be to them a task of pleasure. Let them not be hindered.

It is known to all who know anything on the subject, that the laws of this District do not license gambling, but totally forbid it. It is also known that any man who can use a sling as well as could the slayer of Goliah, can stand in a certain position on Pennsylvania avenue and break the windows of six very extensive gamblinghouses. In the city of Mexico precisely the same state of things existed; and, in the army, kings, queens, and Jacks were very familiar personages. Whether Gen. Scott acted wisely in instituting laws that could be enforced when others had been in vain attempted, we shall not stop to inquire. There are two sides to the question, and we can well tolerate the advocates of both, not doubting article with the following heading: their wisdom and honesty. It is possible also that Gen. Scott will continue to be favorably regarded by the people of this country, even after this terrible exposition, and especially when it is known, as it readily may be, that to suppress gambling was the object next his heart.

We shall leave the subject, however, for a day or two, when we expect to hear from the same sources that he made lenient gambling laws purely for his own gratification, and was often seen in the "hells" of Mexico playing, drinking, brawling, and fighting. A bad man is that Gen. Winfield Scott, and greatly does he grieve his moral and law-loving adversaries!

The Union a Pearl Diver !

The Washington Union of this morning publishes two notes from General Scott the first dated in 1845 and the second in 1847. In the first General Scott repels, with dignity and great him by the person to whom he writes; in the second he expresses to a third person the pleasure he feels at having made a friend of that person.

What the Union expects to make of these letters is more than we can divine. A hungry dog often steals and secretes a dry bone in the hope that it may serve him some good purpose when still yearning among the more bitter of the locofocracy, that induces them to scent, and turn over, and that the alchemy of a jaundiced spirit and the for some vile use. But many years have passed since, both in public and in private, such desires have been manifested towards General Scott; and yet his happiness has not been overshadowed. and his unsullied fame lives, and will forever live, among the brightest herritages of his

Scott in the South.

The Philadelphia North American says: "Bolting the nomination of General Scott seems to be a very unprofitable move on the part of the southern newspapers. Recently we noticed quite a labored complaint in one of the leading Georgia Union Whig papers, because its Whig subscribers discontinued their subscriptions on account of the unreasonable course of the paper. The Wilmington, (N. C.,) Commercial also made a similar complaint; and now the same paper reiterates its complainings with a force which clearly shows that whatever confidence the State department may have in that journal, as shown by the bestowal of the Government patronage on it, the staunch Whigs of that locality do not show the feeling, and are, in consequence, discontinuing their subscriptions. In order to fortify itself against these losses, the Commercial states that the Whigs, as a party, have not paid the expenses of that establishment since its commencement by at least six thousand dollars, and that Democrats and neutrals have made up the balance. The Commercial says that some of its discontinuing subscribers remark, in stopping their paper, 'if you stick to the Whig party, we will be Mehrenberg and Baron Brausberg. These latter glad to support you."

The Great Demonstration in Baltimore

The Whig procession, the meeting in the square the illumination and adornment of the stand, the transparencies, the pyrotechnic displays, the music, and the speaking probably exceeded anything of the kind ever witnessed in that city; and the enthusiastic spirit of the Whigs went far beyond even these. Among the speeches, that made by the Hon. R. W. THOMPSON, of Indiana, is spoken of as one of almost unprecedented power and

MAINE ELECTIONS.

We learn by telegraph from Portland this morning that in eighty towns heard from, Hun-BARD, Democrat, for governor, loses six thousand votes, and is undoubtedly defeated. Messrs. WASHBURN, FARLY, and BENSON, Whigs, and McDonald, Democrat, are probably elected to Congress. Fuller, Democrat, is probably elected in the sixth district. The second district is not vet heard from. The Whigs so far gain four Senators and five members of the House of Representatives.

In the present Congress the delegation from Maine stands as follows:

1st district, McDonald, Dem.

2d do. Appleton, Dem.

3d do. Goodenow, Whig. 4th do. Andrews, Dem.

5th do. Smart. Dem. Washburn, Whig. 6th do.

Fuller, Dem. 7th do.

LATER.—The following despatch is dated Boson, 11 o'clock to-day :

Fuller, Democrat, is elected to Congress from the Calais district. The legislature is very doubtgovernor is largely defeated.

The Position of Mr. Webster.

" Ion," of the Baltimore Sun, presumed to be in the confidence of Mr. Webster, says that the object of what is called the Webster movement is now professed. "It is to form the nucleus of a 'true national and constitutional party. The 'preservation of the present party divisions, and 'even names, after the coming Presidential election, cannot be expected. The party divisions 'and names must represent with more truthfulness the actual state of parties. A State rights party, a constitutional and national party, and an anti-slavery party, will be the three chief divisions of political parties; and there will probably 'be, in addition to these, an inconsiderable party, who will cling to the extreme and obsolete doc-'trines of the old Whig party, all of which were 'abandoned or much modified by the platform of 'the late Whig National Convention."

It is remarkable that a drunken man always sees others stagger, and one seated in a railroad car is astonished at the dancing forests through which he passes. It is sometimes so with politicians. Each one knows that he can never change, and even mourns to look upon the sad mutation of the world around him! Daniel Webster, standing on an ocean-washed rock, with placid brow and unmoved heart, surveys this fickle world so long familiar to his eye, and with the melancholy Dane exclaims-

"The times are out of joint; oh cursed spite That ever I was born to set them right!"

The Philadelphia Sun, a spirited and energetic Native American paper, contains many well written editorials of the tenor indicated by Ion. The number we epen this morning contains a long

"The Want of Distinctive Principles in the Whig and Democratic Parties, and the Duty of Americans in the Presidential Contest."

Do they not chime?

The Words of a True Old Whig. A most estimable and worthy old Whig in Norfolk county, Va., writes to his friend in this city

"Call upon my friend Connolly, the editor of the TELEGRAPH. Tell him we work together with a good heart. Tell him I cannot believe that any lover of his country, who is rightly informed, can vote against so true a patriot, so gallant a soldier, so wise a statesman as Winfield Scott-one whom a world admires for his chivalry, justice, and generosity! In diplomacy he has no superior-no, not even Daniel Webster himself. In honor he is without a blemish. Had either Webster, or our own favorite, Fillmore, been the nominee of the Convention, Gen. Scott severity, certain offensive language used towards | would at once have declared in his favor. Honor would have repelled from his breast the slightest shade of envy, had it fallen there, and he wou as ever have been true to the noble sentiments of sections of the United States. The people of this his heart. But I sicken at the thought that any man who was ever deemed worthy of the confidence of the Whig party, whether he is disappointed in procuring a subordinate place or the closer pinched. There certainly is some vague Presidency itself, can so degrade himself, and so lightly hold his fair fame, as to withhold his vote or his influence from the chosen man of that secrete every fragment in this way, in the hope party from motives so mean and base. The number of disaffected Whigs of this class is small corroding effect of defamation may render it fit with us. Our party is in good condition and in good hopes in this locality. We will do our duty. Assure Mr. C. that we may be depended on-that SCOTT AND GRAHAM are on the lips and in the hearts of our people."

Difficulties with the Negroes in Illinois.

The St. Louis Evening News says a gentleman from Carlisle, in Illinois, states that a few days since a difficulty arose at that place between some citizens and a party of free negroes. It grew out of a fight that took place between a negro boy and a son of ex-Senator Breese. The father of the negro boy interfered, and gave Judge Breese's son a beating. Others interfered, and party after party became involved on each side, until the excitement became general. The citizens took the negroes who had first offended, tied them up and whipped them. Three other nggroes who had somehow signalized themselves in the difficulty, were served in like manner. Some of the citizens, in the course of the excitement, loaded a cannon with several pounds of buckshot, and fired it at a negro house. There were only two occupants in it at the time, one of whom received a slight injury. The negroes were ordered to leave the place in three days, and threatened with similar treatment if they failed to

A Chance for the Flunkies.

By the Arctic came to New York the Count Rissi; by the Europa, the Prince of Nassau and the Prince of Nenwied-under the titles of Count are about 30 years of age each. Besides these, there are the Countess Rossi, Mad. Sontag, and Mad. Alboni; and one who is able to purchase twenty German principalities, Hon. Thomas Baring, M. P., who arrived in the Europa. Thackaray is said to be coming also. They may all be clever people in their way, but if the flunkies gather round them, they may soon appear far otherwise. Shades of Dickins, Ellsler, and Kossuth, hover over and protect them!

The Concert To-night Mr. R. J. Turner should have a hearty greeting at Odd-Fellows' Hall to-night. He is to sing some beautiful songs, as none but him can sing them. A full and fashionable company is confidently looked for.

Madame Sontag's first concert in New York will take place on the 20th inst.

From our earliest years, we have heard this word employed as a term of reproach. Its use in that way has been by no means confined to the Southern States. Throughout Pennsylvania, and from the waters of New York Bay to the head of navigation at Albany, the term "Yankees" has been associated from time immemorial with trickery, humbug, and "wooden nutmegs." Traditions of the adroit and unscrupulous man per in which the Yankee pedlars cheated the credulous Dutch settlers of New York have been anded down as heirlooms in both Yankee and Dutch families, to the admiration, we fear, of many of the former; and the horror and detestation of the latter. The feelings of aversion and contempt entertained towards Yankees in the Middle States were even more intense and general in the South, and they have been heightened and aggravated by the thieving and kidnapping propensities of the Abolitionists in the States. Abroad, we are all known as Yankees, and we are so denounced in a contemptuous and

In this world of wonders, nothing is more astonishing to us than the ignorance of each stor which we in the different country have as many and blind prejudices in regard to each other as those of France and England. Hence, we esteem it a recommendation of any public man for the office of President of the United States, that his duties have called him to all sections of the republic, and made him acquainted with the character, condition and pros ects of all. And, there can be little doubt that, f all our members of Congress and all public men under the general government, should travel in all parts of the Union before entering upon the discharge of their national duties, it much to the harmony and peace of the country. In England, travel upon the continent is considered essential to a gentleman's education; how much more essential to the education of a gentleman and a public man in the United States that he should at least travel in his own country.

In any event, the term "Yankee," used as a term implying scorn and contempt, is not deserved by that portion of the American people to whom it is applied. Their rugged crowded population may compel them, if they would live at all, to live with frugality and economy, and they are educated to regard bloodshed in private quarrels in the same light with the taking of life in any other way. But as a people, they are neither the penurious nor the cowardly race they are so often represented. The battle of Bunker's Hill was fought by men who, when duty demanded, could sacrifice both considerations of interest and of safety. The enormous sums annually distributed in private and public charity by the people of New England, and the heroic manner in which their naval commanders maintained the honor of the United States in the late war against the vaunted mistress of the seas. prove that generosity and courage are not con-fined to any particular latitude. Such a people may be hated, but do not deserve to be despised. The term Yankee should never be employed in a spirit of contempt toward a race whose indomitable energy and practical wisdom have converted a desert into a garden. If they are our friends, the use of reproachful language is unkind as well as unwise; if our adversaries, we should recollect that it is a perilous error to underrate an enemy.—Richmond Republican.

The Gardiner Cast.

In the present position of this case we would prefer making but slight allusions to it; nor do we feel disposed to assume any responsibility even for such facts as may be stated in our columns. Our only purpose in the premises has ever been to expose fraud, if any has been practiced, and to cause every offender to be brought to punishment.

The following has been presented to us by a gentleman with whose requests we are well-disposed to comply, and who is responsible for what he utters:

The Gardiner case has assumed an entirely new phase. For more than two weeks Mr. Soulé's committee in the Senate, Mr. Olds' committee in the House, and the Mayor of this city, have been occupied in taking evidence in this case, and the defendant has been bandied about from "post to pillar" to listen to the imputations of Mexican witnesses brought here by of the United States. They are said to have sworn "equal to our army in Flanders," but if half of what is said out of doors be true, they have been firing blank cartridges. Their chief witness has at length exploded the mine, and shewn very clearly, on cross-examination, that he knows nothing of the facts he was brought here to prove; and, after having sworn roundly and in positive terms to the forgery and fraud, he now admits that the seals on the papers may be genuine, and has shown by "documents," drawn from to Scott and Graham, but also to elect a White him by the sharp "pincers" of experienced counsel, that the sole object of the Mexican witnesses is to procure a conviction of Gardiner under the belief that the award made to him will then revert to the government of Mexico!!

Incidentally it had come out that the witnesse came here under the expectation of making a grand speculation in the prosecution of a heavy claim against the United States for Indian depredations under the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo to have all their expenses paid, in the mean-while to be indemnified for all damages, and then to realize quite a pretty fortune by their "excur-The prosecution have not presented single witness from the alleged neighborhood of the mines; a single person whose name is said to have been forged, nor a single official whose char acter is said to have been personated.

Having coreluded the examination of their first and principal witness before the Mayor of this city, and finding that his cross-examination did not suit their views or expectations, they have suddenly paused, carried their witnesses to Alexandria, in the State of Virginia, and given the defendant notice to attend there! This is the most outrageous, if not ridiculous, part of the whole proceedings; that they should give notice to take lepositions of certain witnesses, naming them be ore the Mayor of this city, take that of one only, get sick of his cross-examination, and suddenly transfer the whole proceedings to an adjacent State, where they knew it would be difficult, if not impossible for the defendant to induce his counsel (one of whom is a thorough master of the Spanish lan guage, in which the depositions are taken, and s thus enabled to hold a check upon an interpreter, if necessary) to go; and after the Govern-ment has deprived him of all the means of employing new counsel, if, indeed, new counse ould enter upon and master such a case!

This may be law, but it has no admixture of common sense or justice, and smells strongly of rank oppression; of a piece, perhaps, with the unheard of, and, in fact, unconstitutional conduct of the counsel for the Government in July when the excessive bail of $100,000 was demand ed for the release of Gardiner from prison.

The whole proceedings in this affair are unique and mysterious, and its true history will, when laid opon, as it will be, excite astonishment, and display some of the intricacy of political ma-

Protest before the Mayor of the City of Washington MEMORANDUM. FRIDAY, 10th Sept., 1852,

10 o'clock a. m. The defendant, George A. Gardiner, accompanied by his counsel, attends the further examina-tion of witnesses in this case, in pursuance of the adjournment of yesterday; and, being informed that the witnesses named in the notice will not be examined here, but will be removed and carried beyond the District of Columbia to be examined in the State of Virginia, does here solemnly protest against such proceeding, as vexatious ar oppressive, and as calculated to evade and escape the effect of the cross-examination of the said witnesses-the said witnesses being now actually untary act of the complainants, about to be transported beyond the reach of cross-examination by the only counsel sufficiently advised of the condi tion of the case to be of any avail to the defend-ant. GEORGE A. GARDINER.

Copy of protest before the Mayor of Alexandria. WASHINGTON, Sept. 11, 1852. To LAWRENCE B. TAYLOR, Esq.,

Mayor, &c., Alexandria, Va. Sir: I have been served with a notice to appear before you this day, to attend to the taking of the depositions of John B. Barragan, Pantaeon Galvan, and others, witnesses for the United Statrs in a certain cause pending in the criminal court of the District of Columbia, on the chancery side thereof, wherein the United States is complainant and I am defendant.

On the 23d of August I was notified to appear before the Mayor of the city of Washington to take the depositions of the same witnesses in the same cause. Since then I have been with my counsel in daily attendance at the Mayor's office in this city, engaged in attending to the taking of depositions in said cause. named in your notice to me were all here, and continued up to yesterday. I reside here, my counsel reside here, the papers in said cause are here, and I was amazed yesterday when I was served with your notice. The Mayor of the city served with your notice. of Washington was and is ready to go on with the taking of the depositions, and there is no reasons why the government should to transfer the taking of them to the State of Virginia. The proceeding is eminently vexatious and oppressive. It is clear that counsel in Alexandria cannot be procured, who can, in this brief space, become fully acquainted with the case. The Government having, upon a mere suspicion, taken possession of my whole fortune, is fully informed that I have not money to employ counsel there, and the counsel I have here under no obligation to go there.

I am the more earnest and anxious in this matter because, in my own judgment, and in the opinion of my counsel, as I understand them, the testimony of the witness on whom the prosecution mainly relies, Jose Antonio Barragan, has been fully and completely balanced, if not destroyed, by his cross-examination here.

I therefore solemnly protest against this ceeding, so unjust, vexatious, oppressive, and il-legal, and upon the grounds I have stated, de-cline to appear, and beg you will return this paper as part of the proceedings.

Respectfully, &c., &c.,
GEO. A. GARDINER.
